Notes:

- 1) Students following this plan are under GenEd-to-GenEd program.
- 2) Fox will accept the combination of MTH-111 and MTH-112 to fulfill the STAT 2103 Business Statistics requirement through DARS exception. DARS exceptions provide Temple academic advisors the capability to make changes to an individual student's academic program and have them automatically applied to the students' degree audit report.
- 3) The only transferable business courses we will accept for a Fox School of Business program are listed in the front of the agreement. Fox's AACSB accreditation prevents us from accepting upper level business courses from non AACSB accredited schools.
- 4) Students who complete LAW 101 and LAW 102 at Camden County College will receive credit for LGLS 1101: Legal Environment of Business at Temple University.
- 5) To see how courses might transfer to Temple, visit the Transfer Equivalency Tool:
<http://admissions.temple.edu/transfer-equivalency-tool>

If the suggested classes are successfully completed and an Associate in Science in Business Administration is awarded from Camden County College, the remaining four semesters in the Accounting program at Temple University are as follows:
